

In memory of Tim Baker

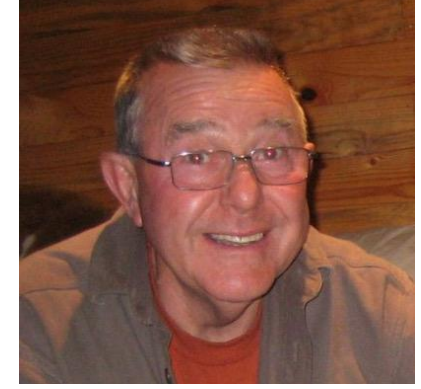

Tim Baker was an example of the ultimate volunteer. There was never a task that was too difficult or impossible for him. It is this selfless volunteerism displayed not only by Tim, but by many people in the Rangeley area that has enabled the RRGSA to continuously move our mission forward to meet the goals of, not only this project, but many others that promote the conservation and preservation of our unique heritage. We thank everyone who contributed to the development, especially the NCCC AmeriCorps group who took a rough plan, creatively improved it, and finally brought the trail to completion.

We appreciate all the volunteers who continue to be an inspiration in making a significant difference in our community. Thank you.

The Rangeley Region Guides' & Sportsmen's Association, originally founded in 1895, is a non-profit organization dedicated to conserving, protecting and restoring the fisheries and wildlife populations of the region for the enjoyment of sportsmen and sportswomen and future generations. This will be accomplished by protecting and restoring habitat, support of appropriate legislation and law enforcement, education of the general public, particularly the youth on the importance of our outdoor sporting heritage and making information on wildlife available to the public.
